Safe so far but peak season is yet to come

By Paul Kennedy
paul@caymanreporter.com

Cayman’s hurricane season has reached half time trouble free – but weather exerts warn it’s the latter stages we need to watch out for. People don’t need to be reminded it was in September when Hurricane Ivan struck – and according to the Director General of the National Weather Service, John Tibbetts, it’s the coming weeks we need to be prepared for. “Peak of the hurricane season is usually around Sept. 11,” said Mr. Tibbetts.

“For the seasonal prediction to be accurate we will likely see a fairly significant increase in the numbers of hurricanes and major hurricanes.”

But he says right now, there is no indication any of these will threaten Cayman. So far, we have seen six named storms in the region, but no hurricanes and no major hurricanes.

Weather forecasts this season from The National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration estimate between 11 and 17 named storms, 5-9 hurricanes and 2-4 major hurricanes.

Mr. Tibbetts added: “The forecast for this season was for a near average season and the numbers actually look a bit lower although we still have not reached the peak of the hurricane season yet.”

In recent days weather has deteriorated, but no weather warning for Cayman was issued.

“Over the past weekend we had a strong tropical wave coming across the central Caribbean,” said Mr. Tibbetts.

“This wave was upgraded to tropical storm Franklin Sunday night as it passed south of the Cayman area. No tropical storm watches or warnings were issued for the Cayman Islands due to the distance from the Cayman and the path it took.”

In recent years, Cayman has seen a handful of hurricanes hit. In September 1955, Hurricane Hilda saw winds of more than 55 miles per hour hit Cayman. In November 2008, Hurricane Paloma caused severe damage to the Sister Islands and Grand Cayman escaped relatively unscathed.

Cayman Brac sustained the most severe impact, with 71 homes destroyed and 912 damaged. Although all homes on Little Cayman were affected, none experienced major damage. Bodden Town was the only district on Grand Cayman reporting damage, with 11 homes affected.

Roughly 400 power poles fell during the storm. Telecommunications experienced similar damage, with landline services disrupted for two to three weeks. And in September 2004, Hurricane Ivan struck.

Winds and storm surge were so strong that a quarter or more of the buildings on the islands were reported to be uninhabitable, with 85 percent damaged to some extent. Much of Grand Cayman still remained without power, water, or sewage services several months later.

TEENS COMPETE FOR TOP SPOT

Six teens but there can only be one winner. Thankfully, we don’t have the unenviable task of having to choose which one will be crowned Miss Teen Cayman 2017.

That’s a job for the judges, phew!

In its 37th year, the event will take place at the Lions Centre on August 26 and features the theme, Young Women in a Changing World.

And it’s not just the prestigious and crown that the winner will receive. Whoever grabs top spot will also pick up a four-year scholarship with the Ministry of Education.

Each contestant has a sponsor, and here’s the list in full.

Thalia Naranjo, 15, West Bay – Boatell; Lian Ebanks, 16, George Town – Gitz and Glam Fashion; Layah Ebanks, 18, West Bay – Burger King; Ashley Bush, 16, West Bay – Auto Spa; Kevin-Ann Peirre, 17, Bodden Town – Scott’s Industries; and Arleny Connor, 16, East End – Cayman Safari Adventures and Fix It Celltronics.

Bush backed by Bryan

A 29-year-old West Bay woman has been charged for fraud related offences linked to an allegedly stolen credit card belonging to an estranged partner.

It was fraudulently used in restaurants and retail establishments in Grand Cayman to make purchases to a value of US$1248.80.

An investigation by the RCIPS Financial Crime Unit led to the woman being arrested and charged on ten counts of obtaining property by deception and three counts of attempting to obtain properties by deception. The woman has been bailed to attend summary court on Aug. 15.

Speaker of the House McKeova Bush has received support from fellow politician Kenneth Bryan who says people must not jump to conclusions and everyone is innocent until proven guilty.

Last week it was revealed how Mr. Bush will not face any further action after he was accused of grabbing the buttocks of a woman at a Florida casino.

Mr. Bush spent the night in custody and was released on a $1,000 bond. But authorities in the United States said they are dropping the case – and will not be speaking to the former Premier about the matter again.

Now the Independent member for George Town Central has said he knows firsthand what it’s like to be accused of a crime – and having people jump to the wrong conclusions.

“A person is innocent until proven guilty,” said Mr. Bryan. “And that’s exactly how people should have treated the Honourable Speaker after his arrest.”

“He wasn’t even charged with anything and, as he said he would, he has now been exonerated. I know firsthand what he went through.

“I was arrested myself in the past and some people are always very quick to throw you under the bus. I just hope now the people of this country can move on.”

Following his arrest in Florida, some members of the Legislative Assembly questioned Mr. Bush’s position and called for “dignity, honour and prestige” to be restored to the position of Speaker of the House.

Mr. Byran was not one of those who supported this.

He added: “The idea to have him remained from his position was something I never supported because it would have had a serious detrimental effect on government, its structure and the running of the country.”

After it was announced there would be no charges against the Speaker, Mr. Bush issued a statement thanking his wife, family, friends and colleagues for their support.

He added: “The last few weeks have been very difficult for me and my family and the support we have received has helped us get through these difficult times.

“To my detractors, my only hope is that you never have to go through what me and my family have over the past few weeks, but if you do, hopefully those around you will not rush to judgement and say or write disparaging comments before the truth prevails.”

Inquiry over liquor licence

The Deputy Governor, Franz Manderson and the Minister for Commerce, Planning and Investment, Joey Hew announced there will be an independent inquiry by the Internal Audit unit into a matter relating to a Liquor Licensing Board decision.

The matter concerning a liquor licence granted to a gas station in Red Bay to sell liquor on Sundays has been the subject of news reports and a recent newspaper editorial.

Announcing the independent inquiry, Minister Hew explained that as the incoming Minister he has not been privy to the history of this application, and in light of the concerns expressed and the seriousness of matter, he has decided to request an independent investigation by the Internal Audit Unit to identify exactly what transpired.

The Deputy Governor confirmed that he supports the Ministry in this call for an investigation.

Remembering 'one of life's better people'

Tributes poured in for a long-term Caymanian resident and account-ant who died recently. Conrad MacVicar was well known in the community and business world.

He came to Cayman from Partick in Glasgow, Scotland, and was boyhood friends with com-edian Billy Connolly.

Among other places, he worked at NAPA and Jacques Scott. Jon Cubbon, of Jacques Scott, said: “Conrad was a fantastic indi-vidual full of great stories. He was a man of empathy and integrity. “I met him in 2005 and we be-came instant friends. He was a great man, a proper gentleman, scholar and entertainer. He will be sorely missed.”

“He impacted a lot of peo-ple’s lives for the good from near and far. All at Jacques Scott that were privileged to work with him are deeply saddened by the news. We were privileged to work with him and the odd tear here and there. Great laugh, deep conversations and the odd story here and there. “I vaguely remember him say-ing I will only stay for one but he meant one month. “Conrad shared my apartment in George Town. We had many a great laugh, deep conversations and the odd tear here and there. “During that time, I honestly be-lieved that we helped each other through a very difficult time so as I sit here on my balcony looking out at the Atlantic I raise a glass to a true gentleman and friend till we meet again. Conrad RIP.”

Another friend, Eddie Ballantyne, a Celtic FC support-er, added: “I loved him dearly. He was and will always be one of life’s best people. His only flaw really was his love of Rangers.’ He made us laugh through the very dark days after Hurricane Ivan.”

Mr. MacVicar is survived by his wife Carla (nee Bodden), chil-dren David, Conrad, Pauline, Brittany and step-children Emily and Morgan. He also has six grandchildren and one great grandchild.

A funeral service will be held 3 p.m. Tuesday Aug. 15 at First Baptist Church. Viewing will be from 2 p.m. prior to the service. Interment will follow at Prospect Cemetery.

Miss Cayman preapres for Universe date

Reigning Miss Cayman Islands Anika Conolly is gearing up for the annual Miss Universe Pageant with training in ward-robe, fitness, public speaking and maintaining her public ap-pearence schedule.

“Being Miss Cayman Islands 2017 has been the journey of a lifetime for me,” said Anika. “I have enjoyed the role immensely so far and look forward to rep-resenting my country on the in-ternational level in the upcoming Miss Universe pageant. Training for Miss Universe has started and I hope to receive everyone’s support and encouragement as I prepare to represent my coun-try and carry on the legacy of our CaymanKind.”

Since taking the crown in March, Anika has been heavily involved in community events and has contributed to Cayman’s culture in many ways. From Southwest’s inaugural launch to the CayFilm awards night, she has been keeping busy with local ap-pearences and putting her stamp on the local scene. In addition to speaking at the annual Human Resources Conference in May, Anika volunteers with the Cancer Society and is a youth leader and mentor to young people.

Captive Forum marks 25th year

The 25th Cayman Captive Forum is approaching and the Insurance Managers Association of Cayman have been busy planning what is to be another impressive lineup of speakers.

Known for being one of the world’s largest insurance conferences, Cayman Captive Forum has a streak of attracting highly sought-after speakers. Last year’s event welcomed ultra-distance swimmer Diana Nyad. At the age of 64, Ms Nyad swam from Cuba to Florida – the first person to do so without the aid of a shark cage.

This year the Forum boasts another influential speaker, with award-winning CNN contributor and popular TEDx motivational speaker Mel Robbins scheduled to take the podium. As one of America’s top motivational speakers, Ms Robbins is known for her poignant talks on behavior change, and is author of the bestseller, The 5 Second Rule.

Forum committee chair, Erin Brosnihan said: “For 25 years now, the Cayman Captive Forum has delivered dynamic speakers, and this year will be no different. Mel’s inspirational words encourage people to seek out inner determination and self-empowerment. We look forward having her with us.”

The Cayman Captive Forum attracts directors, chief financial officers, risk managers, insurance managers, and other service providers from around the world. The event is from Nov. 28-30 at the Ritz-Carlton Grand Cayman.

Teach kids to fish

Parents in the Cayman Islands are extraordinarily lucky to have access so many family-friendly activities, especially at this time of year when the kids are on their long summer vacation.

They can take their kids to the beach for the day, or just take in a movie and a meal at Camana Bay. There are plenty of places to go including the Cayman Turtle Center, Stingray City or Rum Point.

But too many parents overlook fishing when they’re considering their weekend or summer plans. Fishing is one of the best ways to spend time with your kids. Most kids love fishing, and even those who’ve never tried it will often be excited to give it a go.

But to ensure the kids have a good time, you need to make sure they actually catch fish – few youngsters are excited to stand on the beach for hours without getting any bites. Fortunately, you can greatly improve the odds of hooking a couple of fish by simply embracing two key strategies: use the right equipment and target the best species.

Equipment

For the easy route, just set up for a day of fishing with one of the Cayman Islands’ numerous charters. This will alleviate the need to worry about equipment at all, as most charter services provide all equipment needed.

However, if you’d rather just head down to the shore without a guide, the kids need suitable rods and reels.

Always use simple equipment when teaching kids to fish. This means using spinning rod and reel combos, which are less likely to become tangled in the hands of youngsters than the baitcasting combos many adults prefer to use. Also, use rods that are a bit on the short side, which are better suited for their small frames. Something in the 6-12 range is usually perfect.

Species

Serious anglers come to Cayman from all over the world to catch the local bonefish, but these aren’t always the ideal target for first-time anglers. Small barracuda can be caught too, but they’re more likely to bite artificial lures than baited hooks, so they’re also best left to more seasoned anglers. Instead, target tarpon for kids.

Tarpon are awesome fighters. They may only weigh 10 or 20 pounds, but they battle with the power of fish twice that size. They can be caught in a variety of places throughout the Cayman Islands, but Grand Cayman’s North Sound and Little Cayman’s Tarpon Pond are two of the best locations to pursue them with kids. It’s also worth trying to work the land-locked brackish ponds scattered across Grand Cayman.

Tarpon can be caught with a variety of live or cut baits, but small pieces of squid (available at many local grocery stores) are probably your best bet. Best to attach a 1-oz. weight to the line to keep it in place once it is in the water.

It’s also worth catching some of other common, local species, such as French grunts, permit or dusky damselfish. Regardless of what you catch, you’ll want to make sure to release it back into the water quickly and release back into the water quickly and release back into the water quickly and release back into the water quickly.

To learn more about teaching children to fish, check out Outdoor Empire’s comprehensive review of the topic. There’s not only tips and tricks for selecting the best baits and lures to use when fishing with your kids, but you’ll also learn how to find fish that kids can actually catch.

Cancer Society event at Marriott

The Cayman Islands Cancer Society celebrates a weekend of cancer awareness at the Marriott Beach Resort next month.

This is the fifth free health fair of its kind hosted by the Cancer Society. This year they will be partnering with several organisations to provide health information and screenings to the public.

The event, which starts at 8:30 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Sept. 16, brings to the public new and innovative ways of screening, diagnosing and treating cancer. While this event is dubbed Conquering Cancer, the attendees will get the chance to have free health screenings for glucose level, blood pressure, Body Mass Index and cholesterol as well as free healthy food samplings by local supermarkets.

Educational presentations will be made by:

- Conceptions Florida
- Cleveland Clinic
- Health City
- Baptist Health
- Memorial Health
- Perseus PCI
- University of Miami
- Cancer Treatment Centres of America
- CTMH Doctor’s Hospital

This event is open to members of the public and is free. It will bring more than 30 exhibitors to provide information on health products and services plus plenty of giveaways.

EY event inspires students

By Ron Shillingford
Ron@caymanreporter.com

Over 30 students, including Cayman Connection UK members, were invited to join EY at a student networking event at The Venue in Cayman last week.

CCUK helps students studying in the United Kingdom to network with other Caymanians so that they don’t feel too isolated and uninformed. It organises regular meetings in both London and in Cayman and has created Cayman Student Ambassadors who take an active role in keeping members fully informed and involved.

The EY event was an opportunity for students to learn more about scholarship and internship opportunities and to talk to EY partners, managers and human resources staff. The students were told about finance in the Cayman Islands and some of the tax haven misconceptions about Cayman’s financial service that EY deals with on a daily basis. The students were offered advice and information about EY as an organisation and EY scholar Jamal Hinds spoke about being involved in the EY scholarship system and the great opportunities.

Opportunities

Jan Connolly, HR manager who leads the scholarship and internship programme and organised the event, welcomed the students, spoke of the EY opportunities, how to apply, and opened the floor to questions.

The event included a fun networking bingo and goodie bags and prizes from the company. Kate Kandiah, CCGK co-founder, said: “It is a pleasure to be able to attend these networking events with students and share details with our members.

“We have students on our database studying accounting and finance who may not know about some of these private sector opportunities so it is great to be involved. I enjoyed meeting CCGK students at the event and students who will be new to the U.K. this year.”

Mr. Hinds said: “Working at EY has given me the opportunity to put the accounting knowledge learned at university to use, as well as gain new skills.

“I am also grateful for being selected as the 2017 Scholarship Recipient which will support me throughout my postgraduate studies so that I can become a Certified Public Accountant. I am looking forward to being back in the U.K. and will stay connected to CCGK there.

“I think Caymanians that are considering studying accounting should apply for the EY Scholarship and Internship as you then have the opportunity to travel, work alongside a diverse set of staff and enhance key skills. You would be surprised how much you learn in such a short time.”

Mr. Hinds feels fortunate to have interned with EY for nine weeks last summer. “This gave me the opportunity to put the accounting knowledge learned at university to use and strengthened my understanding of the subject,” he said. “I had the chance to ask questions relating to career development at EY and the necessary steps to take in order to become a CPA.”

He did some research and realised that he needed to do a master’s in accounting to gain the required credit hours to be able to sit the exams and gain the designation.

“I wasn’t planning on doing a master’s but I had a great experience and wanted to come back,” he said. “So, I applied for the EY scholarship, did an interview with a panel of partners and was ultimately successful.”

He recently completed a BSc in accounting and management with finance in London. He will be returning to the U.K. in September to start a master’s in accounting and management at Queen Mary, University of London.

Mr. Hinds has been in London for the past three years and loves it. “London is a melting pot of cultures and I have a chance to meet people from all over the world with various backgrounds every day,” he said.

Mr. Hinds is not a Cayman Student Ambassador yet but will promote Cayman to his U.K. friends as well as be a part of networking events. Last month he attended an event with Premier Alden McLaughlin and past Cayman Governors, during which Mr. Hinds shared with EY staff about volunteering. “I would encourage those in the U.K. to sign up for COUK and those interested in a career in accounting to consider EY. The staff is supportive and you learn so much.”

HSA opens Acute Care Clinic

The Health Services Authority has opened an Acute Care Clinic for patients with non-emergency medical conditions who still have an immediate need to see a doctor. The clinic offers patients a lower cost alternative to the Accident & Emergency department at the Cayman Islands Hospital, helping to reduce their waiting times.

The Acute Care Clinic also provides same-day care for everyday illness and injury, including minor cuts, mild sprains, fever, sore throats, earaches and eye infections and cold symptoms during the peak flu season, with no appointment required. It is open Monday to Friday from 7:30 a.m. to 8:00 p.m. in the General Practice building on the campus of the Cayman Islands Hospital.

Director of Primary Healthcare Services at the HSA, Dr. Samuel Williams said the Acute Care Clinic reflects the authority’s commitment to providing accessible, convenient and high-quality medical treatment to the people of the Cayman Islands.

The clinic will benefit patients who may not be able to see their primary physician, who do not have a primary physician or who do not need emergency treatment.

HSA CEO Lizette Yearwood in extolling the benefits of the service said the clinic will ensure that each patient is placed in the right care setting for their needs. She said: “They will no longer need to go to the Emergency Room for non-life-threatening illnesses. “This is a crucial development that delivers a better experience for our patients.”

Dr. Williams encourages patients to continue to book appointments with their Primary Care Physician at the General Practice Clinic and to visit the Acute Care Clinic only when the need for acute, but non-emergency care arises.

The Cayman Islands has seen a spike in crime in recent months, but the country is still relatively safe and not a serious problem compared to other Caribbean countries.

The Canadian government has issued a warning to its nationals on which Caribbean nations to be ultra-vigilant in and named the worst areas. If any Cayman residents are travelling to any of these areas soon, it’s worth noting which places to avoid. Much of safe travelling is common sense anyway, but tourists can easily go in potentially dangerous spots totally unwittingly.

Belize

Be alert since banditry and lawlessness are a problem in the cities of Albina and Moengo, and along the East-West Highway between Paramaribo and Albina. Avoid the areas of Palm Garden (Palmentuin) in the Dutch area of Paramaribo after dark due to illicit activities and the lack of police presence; to ensure that your personal belongings, passports and travel documents are secure always and to avoid walking alone after dark outside the immediate vicinity of major hotels.

Suriname

Be alert since banditry and lawlessness are a problem in the cities of Albina and Moengo, and along the East-West Highway between Paramaribo and Albina. Avoid the areas of Palm Garden (Palmentuin) in the Dutch area of Paramaribo after dark due to illicit activities and the lack of police presence; to ensure that your personal belongings, passports and travel documents are secure always and to avoid walking alone after dark outside the immediate vicinity of major hotels.

Guyana

Guyana has seen an increase in assaults, pick-pocketing, purse snatching, break-ins, armed robberies, car thefts and carjackings, particularly in Georgetown, including Stabroek Market, Tiger Bay and South Georgetown.

TheGuyana sea wall, from east of the Pegasus Hotel extending to Sheriff Street and adjacent areas, has been the site of several crimes and should be avoided after dark, as well as the villages of Buxton, Lusignan, Friendship and Annadale and New Amsterdam. Travellers should also be wary when on the road to and from Cheddi Jagan International Airport and on the Linden Highway, especially at night, since violent attacks have also occurred on the roads.

Jamaica

In Jamaica, avoid travel to the areas of Tivoli Gardens, Whitfield Town, Payne Land, West Kingston, Grant’s Pen, August Town, Denham Town, Hannah Town, Arnett Gardens, Olympic Gardens, Harbour View, Central Village, Spanish Town, Mountain View, Trench Town, Cassava Piece, Canterbury, Norwood and Rose Heights. You should also avoid some parts of Montego Bay, namely St. Clavers Avenue and Hart Street, Flankers, Canterbury, Norwood and Rose Heights and Mount Salem in Jamaica. Be on the lookout for petty theft, pick-pocketing and bag-snatching that are common in major tourist areas. Try not to walk alone while visiting the island; to exercise extreme caution in all regions of the country after dark and avoid visiting beaches and isolated areas at night and to be wary of “friendly” strangers since there have been reports of sexual assaults at tourist resorts carried out by resort staff and, in some cases, by other tourists.

Trinidad & Tobago

In Trinidad & Tobago, remain vigilant in Laventille and at popular tourist sites such as Fort George, La Brea (Pitch Lake) and Las Cuevas beach, where the government says crimes targeting foreigners have been reported. Also, avoid unpopulated areas such as scenic overlooks, especially after dark and around the docks in Port of Spain.
Nassau is picturesque but potentially dangerous

When travelling to the Bahamas it’s best to monitor local media and follow the instructions of local authorities. Crime occurs mainly in Nassau and Freeport and there has been an increase in armed robberies targeting tourists in Nassau. Avoid deserted beaches if travelling there, and don’t walk alone, particularly after dark since sexual assaults are on the rise in Nassau, the country’s capital.

The Dominican Republic

There is a disturbing amount of crime in the Dominican Republic. This includes pick-pocketing and bag-snatching, which occurs at resorts, beaches, airports, bus stations and on public transport and from hotel room safes, as well as from cars, particularly rentals.

Travellers should also be wary of drive-by robberies, where thieves on motorcycles, scooters or bicycles grab bags and other valuables from pedestrians and of criminals impersonating police officers, who will stop vehicles and ask foreigner drivers for payment of fines for made-up offences. Women travelling alone are also warned to exercise caution when dealing with strangers or recent acquaintances, especially regarding the acceptance of rides or other invitations, since incidents of assault, rape and sexual aggression against foreigners have occurred, including at beach resorts. In some cases, hotel employees have been implicated.

Haiti

Haiti is the poorest country in the Caribbean and in recent years, natural disasters have taken its toll on the economy and infrastructure. That is reflected in the high crime rate. Non-essential travel to the neighbourhoods of Marissiant, Carrefour, Bel Air and Cité Soleil, in the capital Port-au-Prince is advised. Criminal activity is especially prevalent in large centres such as downtown Port-au-Prince, the country’s capital, where armed gangs operate. There have been reports of murders, kidnappings, armed robbery, burglary and carjacking, even in daylight hours. Never walk alone and avoid travelling after nightfall.

Grenada will host tourism event

Grenada will play host the Caribbean Tourism Organisation’s annual State of the Industry Conference from Oct. 9 to 13 at the Radisson Grand Beach Resort in Grand Anse. This year’s theme, Supercharging the Caribbean Brand: Meeting the Needs of the New Explorer, will focus on the changing dynamics within the travel industry for the region.

“We have to ensure that the Caribbean is positioned and ready to capture the interest of the new explorer who wants adventure and authentic experiences,” said Sylma Brown Bramble, CTO director for the U.S.

Apart from discussions, workshops and seminars covering major issues affecting the tourism industry, SOTIC is an opportunity for member countries to showcase their tourism products to an international audience. Grenada will host destination tours as well, according to Patricia Maher, CEO of the Grenada Tourism Authority.

More than 350 industry leaders from the 36 member countries of the CTO as well as representatives of the regional and international private sectors are expected to attend.

BVI plans regatta

The 2018 BVI Spring Regatta and Sailing Festival is planning its 47th annual race, with new innovations, parties and races. From March 26-April 1, the waters of the British Virgin Islands will see competitors from across the globe.

New for 2018 will be a long-distance race around BVI’s 64 islands. Starting with the Round Tortola Race for the Nanny Cay Cup, sailors will then circumnavigate all the island’s landmarks. Dubbed The Full Moon Race - 64 Islands - One Brilliant Night, it is a 165-mile race.

Bolt could be Puma boss

Puma has revealed plans to hand its prized brand ambassador, Usain Bolt, a new role ahead of his impending retirement after confirming it could make the Jamaican sprinter the head of its Caribbean business.

The German brand has stressed Bolt’s absence from the track will not be to the detriment of his role with the company.

Speaking to German newspaper Handelsblatt, the executive Bjorn Gulden said: “Usain Bolt could be even more important for us when he stops running. I can even imagine that he could run our business in the Caribbean.”

Puma has supported Bolt since he was 15 and in 2013 he renewed his commitment to the brand with a contract running beyond the 2016 Rio Olympic Games.
Glitz and glam? Maybe. Brains and beauty? For sure. But bang! Miss Teen is about so much more. Sure, the catwalk is a great place to strut, and let’s be honest, who doesn’t want a career as an international supermodel? But Miss Teen Cayman is also about community, and most importantly, it’s about Cayman. Representing the country and doing the residents proud.

That’s exactly what the half dozen contestants learned during their whistle stop tour of the country as they get set for Aug. 26.

Whether it was live broadcasts on Radio Cayman, meeting some old folks on the Sister Islands, or posing for pictures with the individual sponsors, these girls have to be professional, courteous and at the top of their game. And it’s so far, so good. They’ve delivered when and where it matters. But to fair they did have a little help from someone who knows only too well the responsibility of being Miss Teen... last year’s winner Liana De Costa.

The Miss Teen Cayman event takes place on Saturday August 26 at the Lions Centre. Gates open 5:30 p.m. Due to a previous family commitment overseas, Kevie-Ann Peirre couldn’t make the trip to the Brac.

Jackson relishes president’s role

By Ron Shillingford
ron@caymanreporter.com

The Cayman Islands Boxing Association has a new president in Leyla Jackson, who got the post despite not even applying for it. Cayman’s boxing scene has progressed rapidly in recent years with fighters like Dariel Ebanks and Hopkin Ebanks reaching world class. There are several talented novices too, including Chambria Dalhouse and Alex Smith who last month competed at the Commonwealth Youth Games.

Jackson has been involved with the CIBA in various posts and is now a qualified judge and ref. That background has prepared her well for the president’s position. She said: “I didn’t technically go for the job, there was an election and I was nominated so it was a little bit of a surprise. Although I am very happy to have been nominated and to have been given this opportunity.”

Jackson has been around the gym since 2011 and part of the executive board since 2012. She started as secretary and then moved to vice-president in 2014. Mike Laurenson, owner of Elite Marble and Granite, who are the main sponsors, is the new vice-president. Laurenson has sponsored many boxers in recent years, the most recent being Dariel, Hopkin and Dalhouse at training camp in London for two months.

Ann-Marie Byrd was Jackson’s predecessor. Jackson said: “In the main we are working towards the same goals, the key ones being the Commonwealth Games in 2018 and the Olympics in 2020 for the elite boxers. However, I qualified as a national level ref and judge earlier this year, so my concentration since that point has been on building a Cayman team of officials, so integrating the training of officials and building the younger boxers in the gym is very important.

“The new board is going to implement this by having more small scale shows in the gym to keep the boxers and officials active and motivated. The first one is currently being planned for Sept. 16 by the fundraising committee.”

So, what are her main goals? “What every president hopes to achieve I think, which is obviously a major international medal. We did extremely well at the Caribbean Development Boxing Tournament last year under the leadership of Ann-Marie so we hope to build on that foundation and return to the CDBT this year with an even bigger team.”

Head coach Ryan Barrett is a former world champion pro based in the U.K. He runs his own gym in south London when not coaching the Cayman boxers. His position in Cayman was uncertain and Barrett openly declared that.

Head coach Ryan Barrett is a former world champion pro based in the U.K. He runs his own gym in south London when not coaching the Cayman boxers. His position in Cayman was uncertain and Barrett openly declared that.

Jackson said: “The situation is resolved. Subject to confirmation of our funding position over the next few weeks, coach Barrett is very happy and will be remaining as part of our coaching team.”

She is hopeful that Cayman’s top fighters can reach their potential and inspire others. “Obviously Dariel and Hopkin are our two current elite boxers and we are hoping to see exciting things from them as they drop weight classifications,” she said.

“Our current international youth team consists of Chambria Dalhouse and Alex Smith who both just returned from the Youth Commonwealth in the Bahamas. “We also have some very promising looking youth boxers in the gym and there is a good number of them, including Aaron Miller. Most promising however, are our young female boxers including Neandra Forbes-Morgan and Brandy Barnes (the daughter of new board member and former Cayman boxer Ernest Barnes), so watch this space!”

Tafari Ebanks, Hopkin’s cousin, was the top Cayman fighter until he left for Miami some months ago. Jackson has not heard from Tafari in a while. “I believe that he is in the U.S. training with coach Norman Wilson but I am not sure if he has turned pro or not. Ideally, we would hope to have him back boxing for Cayman.”

The 35-year-old Brit is a law lecturer by profession. She worked at the Truman Bodden Law School for seven years and before that she taught for three years in Bradford. “I only recently moved into the private sector for a challenge and a change. I’m currently working in all different types of law but family and employment are my areas of expertise.”

Jackson will have a list of the new CIBA board as soon as it is confirmed by the governing body, AIBA, shortly “but they are extremely enthusiastic and already working on the fundraising event for September”. Jackson added that she is “very grateful to everyone who contributes to boxing in Cayman, especially government, the Cayman Islands Olympic Committee, our sponsors, outgoing board and in particular Ann-Marie Byrd who has dedicated a countless number of years to the sport”.

Martinez signs for Portuguese club

A Caymanian teenager has signed a two-year professional contract with a top Portuguese football club, Sebastian Martinez signed with Leixões SC on Monday.

Located in Matosinhos, a city in the northern Porto district of Portugal, Leixões SC play in the Liga Pro, which is the second-tier of the Portuguese football league system after the Primeira liga.

Leixões SC has a close relationship with two of Portugal’s top clubs – Benfica and Braga. Martinez, 18, makes the switch from English League 2 club Swindon Town where he signed a development contract as a trainee with the celebrated Swindon Town Youth Academy in 2011, aged 13. In 2015, after making his mark in the youth ranks, Martinez signed a two-year apprenticeship contract with the English club.

Thanks to the continuing efforts of Fitzroy Simpson, who is a former player with Swindon Town, Manchester City and Portsmouth and Reggae Boyz member who starred for Jamaica in the 1998 World Cup, Martinez’s dream of playing professional football has become a reality.

“With Simpson’s guidance and through his tireless efforts, Martinez blossomed at Swindon Town’s Youth Academy, the youth teams and the senior reserve team,” Simpson and his business partner, Caesar Boaventura of GIC International Sports Company, who played a key role in brokering the agreement with the Portuguese outfit, will ensure that Martinez continues to work hard and develop at his new club.

After putting pen to paper, Martinez said: “I want to thank all those that have supported me on my journey over the past six years particularly Swindon Town Football Club, Jeremy Newton, Alan McLoughlin and Fitzroy Simpson for the magnificent opportunities and rigorous preparations; my parents and sisters for their support and unwavering belief in me; the rest of my family and friends; and the Government of the Cayman Islands who have supported me since 2011.”

He added: “I am very excited and look forward to the challenges that lie ahead as I embark on the next leg of my journey in Portugal. Speaking on behalf of the Cayman Islands Football Association, president Lee Ramon said: “This is great news. Sebastian’s name will be forever-enshrined in Cayman’s football history books. It proves that if our youngsters stick to the task at hand, remain committed and work hard, then success can be attained. Members of GIC’s executive committee congratulate Sebastian on his every success in Portugal.”

Equally impressed is Barbara Connolly, the Temporary Minister for Education, Youth, Sports, Agriculture and Lands. She said: “It is not surprising that Sebastian has earned a professional contract to play football. It was a dream of his years ago under the tutelage of coach Winston Chung.

“Unlike most with similar dreams however, Sebastian demonstrated a disciplined approach to his future and continued to achieve excellent grades in school while he steadily developed his football skills. The government is pleased to have been able to play a role in his development and we congratulate Sebastian on this achievement.”

The 2017/18 Portuguese regular season is already under way and Martinez will be looking to impress his new employers.

Purple Dragon excel in US

Seven competitors from Purple Dragon School of Martial Arts returned to the Cayman Islands with a clutch of awards from the US Capitol Classics Open Martial Arts Tournament.

The 35th Annual US Capitol Classics is one of the most prestigious martial arts tournaments in Sport Karate with a NASKA 6 A rating (the highest rating).

The Caymanian team comprised of four Purple Dragon black belt competitors and three under black belt ranks. They competed in divisions such as Sparing, Forms, Extreme Forms, Weapons, Extreme Weapons, Self-defense and the highly contested 17 years and under synchronized forms divisions, in which team members Dante Baptiste and Isabella Powery took third place. Dante and Isabella also went on to win four first place trophies each in various forms and fighting divisions.

Purple Dragon dominated in the self-defense division with Powery taking the top title and Danette McLoughlin, a first time competitor, capturing second place in their various divisions. They were assisted by Abraham Powery and Dante Baptiste. Abraham went on to win first place in creative weapons, second place in continuous fighting and second place in creative forms, with Dante taking first place.

The two youngest competitors, Josiah Baptiste and Corey McLoughlin, both 9 years old, demonstrated that the future of martial arts in the Cayman Islands is secure by winning second and third in sparing respectively and Josiah also earned fourth place in his Forms division. Sensei Geddes Hislop (5th degree black belt) brought home two first place victories for creative forms and weapons and second place in sparing in the 50 years and over divisions.

“I am very proud of the team and the level of discipline and commitment they demonstrated in preparation for this event. It really shows that hard work pays off and we are very excited to take part in the 35th Annual US Capitol Classics Open Martial Arts Tournament.” said Shihan Floyd Baptiste, head instructor of Purple Dragon Cayman Islands. The Purple Dragon International Team consists of five countries and was led by Purple Dragon’s chief instructor Professor Don Jacob. The team won 21 first places, nine second places, 14 third place and nine fourth places.

Academy guest players shine

In addition to the resounding success of the six Academy Sports Club teams who travelled to Minnesota last month for the 33rd annual Schwan’s USA Cup, five Academy players quietly shone as guests on other teams.

Finigan Huffington Bryan and Adebayo Oremule played with Vardar Soccer Club from Michigan, managing to make it to the U19 Gold Cup semi-final, while Ashely Ebanks, Jasmine Powery and Shimiari Fisher lent their talents to Peterborough SC from Ontario, Canada and made it to the girls U17 Gold Cup semi-finals.

Teams were sourced for the players to guest play with as there weren’t enough Academy players to make a team for their age brackets. All players made significant contributions to their teams, with Bryan, Oremule, and Fisher all scoring goals in the tournament.

“Our players who were guests on other teams had a unique experience at the tournament as they were able to interact with and get to know teams from another country, as well as play with them,” said Virgil Seymour, Academy head coach.

Colleagues present at the tournament expressed interest in the older Academy players. “It is always a good feeling to hear that a college team is interested in a player from Academy,” said Seymour. “We are extremely grateful to the teams for allowing our players to join them for the week and for giving them the opportunity to get in front of the eyes of some college scouts.”

Academy also welcomed players from other teams to play with their six teams during the tournament. “While at the USA Cup, we like to create relationships with other teams as much as we can, allowing us to have these kinds of situations where other teams can help us out and we can help them as well,” said Seymour. “This guest player programme also promotes a cross cultural experience through football.”
The English Premier league kicks off this weekend and with all the big money spent expectations are high with the Manchester clubs. The transfer window doesn’t end until August 31st so there is still time for teams to make big moves. Manchester City are everybody’s favourites for the title, mainly because Pep Guardiola has been so busy in the transfer market. He has had a huge clear out at the Etihad Stadium after his debut season finished with no trophies and a third-place finish. His first season started impressively with 10 straight wins but Guardiola’s porous defence was exposed after that. City were impressive going forward but conceding too many goals at crucial times were his downfall. Nothing less than a Premier League title will satisfy fans and club owners alike.

Feeling a bit chilly? Wrap up with this hat and scarf. It’s a great way to feel cozy and fashionable at the same time.

The prison has announced a new program that is being introduced to its inmates. The program is designed to teach them a skill to help them upon release. Inmates will be taught how to make handbags from the skin of green iguanas, which are a common sight in Cayman.

This program not only helps the inmates gain a valuable skill, but it also helps the country by reducing the number of iguanas roaming around. These pesky reptiles can cause damage to properties and can be a burden to some people.

The prison is encouraging others to get involved and support this initiative. They are asking businesses and individuals to donate materials such as tarpaulin, lanterns, first aid kits, and 5-gallon buckets to help the inmates get started.

Insurance: Be insured and be prepared. Save on your buildings cover and claim a free storm kit or $250 gift certificate! The storm kit is free to all new home insurance policy holders. It contains all the essentials, and it’s a great way to ensure you’re prepared for any weather that comes your way.

Some restaurants are even turning green iguanas into a tasty gourmet item. People are loving this new culinary trend and are excited to try green iguana dishes.

Could car fumes soon be a thing of the past? Some cars are being developed that run on green iguanas. This could be the future of sustainable transportation.

Don’t be seen without this costume at the beach. This season’s must-have accessory is perfect for anyone looking to stand out in the sun.

This tennis racket is bound to up your game, just ask Andy Murray. He swears by it and it’s helping him win more matches.

Some friends are going to Bahamut, a popular destination for island hopping in the Caribbean. They’re excited to enjoy the sun, sand, and sea.

This photo was taken at the Crisis Centre. The Crisis Centre is a vital resource for those in need. They are always looking for volunteers and donations to help them continue their important work.

The woman, who has asked not to be named, married a man here in Cayman and at first, was more than happy in her relationship. However, things took a turn for the worse. Eventually, she stepped up and got out, and she is now urging others to do the same.

The woman, who was the victim of domestic abuse for years, stepped up and got out. She is now urging others to do the same. She has asked not to be named, but her story is one that needs to be heard.

The job they do is really amazing. It’s life changing. I don’t know how I would have made it without them.

The verbal and the emotional abuse is the worst. It does a lot to you. And it’s hard for me to even talk about it. I’m more aware of domestic abuse is embedded into culture. And as a result, this victim is rebuilding and starting again.

The night he tried to kill me, he went from screaming to quiet. He was calm, quiet, and it’s fine. And it’s easy sometimes not to see it.

We had a lot of sessions, they encouraged me to do other things, to be busy, I was going to the Crisis Centre, I was broken face. He went from screaming to calm, quiet, and it’s fine. And it’s easy sometimes not to see it.

Some people have the idea that domestic abuse is only about physical. But it’s not. That’s the message from one woman who was the victim of domestic abuse for years. Eventually, she stepped up and got out, and she is now urging others to do the same.

I started thinking about what more I could give, to George Town, to that. And there was always someone there to listen to me and to be understanding. Sometimes even a shoulder to cry on and I cried a lot.

I'm more aware of the little things, those little things that might not mean a lot, but to others, it can mean the world.
